Description of Points Visited

The following brief descriptions can be supplemented by illustrated literature, secured on application.

COURT OF THE FOUR SEASONS
ACTUAL PHOTOGRAPH, PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION—SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO. Population 530,000, the Metropolis of the Pacific Coast, founded in the romantic days of '49. Partially destroyed by earthquake and fire in 1906, the city has been rebuilt, with wide streets and stately structures. It contains and is surrounded by many points of interest—Government Military Reservation, Mt. Tamalpais, Berkeley, Oakland, its great Bay, Golden Gate Park, Cliff House, Chinatown, etc. Its seasonal temperatures vary slightly so that it is convenient to visit the city at any period.

Here, between February 20 and December 4, will be held THE PANAMA-PACIFIC INTERNATIONAL EXPOSITION, celebrating the formal opening of the Panama Canal, successfully completed by this Government. The Exposition grounds, of 635 acres, are two miles from the business centre of the city, on the shores of San Francisco Bay, just within the Golden Gate, surrounded by magnificent mountain and marine scenery. Participation will consist of exhibitions from foreign nations and various States showing the achievement of the human race in commerce and art. A description of the architecture, pillars, courts, gardens, halls and exhibits of this great Exposition runs to pages. This description will be found in "Condensed Facts," a copy of which we will gladly send upon application.

SANTA CRUZ. Here is one of California's big playgrounds with a great Casino, cottage and tent city, golf links, dancing and bathing pavilions and other facilities for amusement.

DEL MONTE. In the old town of Monterey, the first capital of California, its climate is perfect, and here, within a scattering garden of two hundred acres, is located the Hotel Del Monte, noted for its lavishness, luxury and splendor. It is the rendezvous for San Francisco society and a golfers' paradise. The points of interest are Carmel Mission, Pacific Grove, Moss Beach, the Old Town, Seal Rock and Cypress Point.

SANTA BARBARA. A noted watering place with two very prominent hotels. Facilities are afforded the visitor for bathing, golfing, polo and other sports. The Santa Inez Mountains are delightful grounds for auto and riding parties. Near here is the historic Santa Barbara Mission.

LOS ANGELES. Population 450,000, the second city in importance and population in California. Its growth has been very rapid and it is up-to-date in every respect. Its homes, hotels, churches and clubs may be placed in the front rank. The tourists' chief interest, however, lies in the many conveniently made side trips: SANTA CATALINA ISLAND, twenty-four miles from Los Angeles, reached by electric trains and steamer. Here the visitor may view the marine gardens through glass bottom boats, seeing shoals of various fishes and acres of marine vegetation. The opportunity is offered the keen fisherman to enjoy the highest triumph of the sport—the capture of the Leaping Tuna. PASADENA, noted for its fine hotels and homes. The vegetation is so varied and luxuriant that it gives the impression of one vast park. It may be visited while en route to Mt. Lowe or San Gabriel Mission, both very interesting points. Here also is located an ostrich farm open to visitors. Another delightful trip is to the various beaches, notably, Long Beach, Santa Monica, Venice, Playa del Rey, Redondo, Naples, Huntington, Newport, Balboa and many others.

SAN DIEGO. A prosperous and charming city, equipped with fine hotels, good car service, excellent shops and pretty homes. It is the city where, in the year of 1915, will be held the SAN DIEGO PANAMA-CALIFORNIA EXPOSITION. Although international in scope its many exhibits will bear on the historic and romantic features of the Southwest. Its buildings and architecture are replicas of famous originals in Spain and Old Mexico. Every phase of the Southwest's industry and commerce will be exhibited. The fruits and vegetable exhibit will consist of plantations and groves of the actual product. Opposite San Diego is Coronado Beach, noted for its fine hotel and excellent bathing and fishing facilities. Fifteen miles below San Diego is Tia Juana, a Mexican village, where the visitor will see bull fights, curio shops and picturesquely clad natives.

FRANK TOURIST COMPANY

RIVERSIDE. Population 12,000, a locality renowned for navel oranges, where immense orange groves and 200 miles of shaded avenues lined with eucalyptus, pepper and magnolia trees seem overhung by the towering, snow-capped San Bernardino mountains. Here will be seen the parent of California's unlimited orange trees, brought to Riverside in 1874. A wonderful drive is through the beautiful Victoria and far-famed Magnolia Avenues from Victoria Hill to Mt. Rubidoux.

REDLANDS. It is claimed that the world's finest oranges come from this locality. The points of interest at this charming spot are Canyon Crest Park, Smiley Heights and Bear Valley.

YOSEMITE NATIONAL PARK. A velvet sward of green, 4,000 feet high up in the heart of the Sierras. In its midst a river surging through a giant corridor of grizzly peaks and spires—from El Capitan, 3,200 feet, to Half Dome, 4,737 feet—over which tumble six crashing cataracts—Bridal Veil, Yosemite Falls, Ribbon Falls and others. This great chasm, with walls most perpendicular and of wonderful variety of form and of floral and animal life, is readily accessible and the trip from the railroad main line is very interesting. Accommodations provided at camps or well maintained hotels. With a trip to Yosemite can be included MARIPOSA BIG TREE GROVE. This is the largest Big Tree Grove in California, containing more than seven hundred monsters, many over fifty feet in circumference and three hundred feet in height. They are the oldest living things in existence; many have passed their two thousandth birthday and, when standing among these sublime towers, the beholder is overcome with awe. The Merced and Tuolumne Big Trees can be reached by a fourteen-mile side trip from El Portal.

SPECIAL EXPOSITION TOURS

ALBUQUERQUE. A very ancient town whose attractions are multiplied by the splendid railway hotel, the Alvarado, built on the Mission style. Here is Harvey's Indian Museum, an unrivaled collection of Indian relics and products of the Hopi, Navaho, Zuni, Apache, Pima and Mexican tribes. Native weavers, potters, silversmiths and basket-makers may be seen here engaged in their crafts.

GRAND CANYON. An attempt will be made to describe this incomparable wonder, not appreciated until seen. It is not merely a cleft but a terrific trough six to seven thousand feet deep, five to twenty miles wide, hundreds of miles long, with hundreds of peaks taller than any east of the Rockies, all blazing with such color as no Eastern or European landscape ever knew. The Canyon may be explored by tally-ho along the rim or with guides and ponies by various trails to the Colorado River. Fifty yards from the hotel are the dwellings of Navaho and Hopi Indians, containing collections of Indian handiwork. The band of Hopis, of the most primitive Indians in our country, perform ceremonies hundreds of years old, among them the famous Snake Dance. Members of neighboring tribes visit the hotel.

DENVER. Population 213,000, Colorado's mile-high Capital, "Queen City of the Plains," world-famed tourist and convention centre, close to Canyon of the Arkansas. This canyon is ten miles long, containing the famous Royal Gorge—red granite and gneiss walls, sparkling with mica, tower aloft nearly 3,000 feet, the width at points less than ten yards where the roadbed is built out over the boiling river. After leaving the Royal Gorge, the Grand Canyon with its aspect of rock and water continues. At Howard may be seen the rugged, snowy Sangre de Cristo range, thence through Brown's Canyon, a very fascinating defile; Leadville, one of the greatest mining camps and the highest modern city in the world; thence through Tennessee Pass and over the Continental Divide, amid snow patches and stunted cedars. The traveler now enters Eagle River Canyon—not only impressive with the grandeur of nature but presenting the curious sight of mines being worked up and down the face of its 2,000 feet high, perpendicular walls. Shortly after, the traveler enters the Canyon of the Grande River, sixteen miles long, opening and closing, with walls 2,500 feet in height, with fantastic figurations. Soon after, Glenwood Springs is reached. This is one of the best-known pleasure resorts and watering places in the West, with remarkable hot sulphur springs and modern resort hotel, the Colorado. The visitor may here indulge in bathing, fishing, hunting, golfing, tennis, polo and riding. From this point on to Salt Lake City the train gradually seeks a lower grade, with views of distant mountains.

acoustics and organ with 5,500 pipes, free recitals are given daily. Fifteen miles distant is Saltair Beach on the shores of the great Salt Lake. Its waters are six times as salty as the ocean and so dense as to prevent the swimmer from sinking. The lake is one hundred miles long, sixty miles wide and en route will be seen extensive salt evaporating beds.

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK. In the State of Wyoming, readily reached from Salt Lake City by a side trip, two days or longer, according to the points visited. It contains geysers not equaled anywhere in magnitude or number and its terraces and beautiful pools are unsurpassed. It has a large lake, rivers, canyons and falls worthy of mention. Jefferson, Mt. Adams, Mt. Rainier and others. Rivaling a trip on the Rhine or Hudson is one made from this point up the Columbia River, with its majestic mountain scenery.

SPECIAL EXPOSITION TOURS

SEATTLE. Population 250,000, a typical, progressive Northwest city, remarkable for its rare scenic beauty. Here are large woodworking and shipbuilding plants and iron foundries. The residential section is attractively located on terraced hills and its beautiful parks and fresh-water lakes are reached by one of the most extensive boulevard systems in America. Rainier National Park can be visited in a one-day side trip from this city at an approximate expense of $7.50.

VICTORIA. Population 35,000, a transplanted section of old England on Vancouver Island overlooking the Straits of Fuca. It ranks among the handsomest cities of America, because of its beautiful residential sections, miles of magnificent roads and government buildings.

VANCOUVER. Population 130,000, the largest city in British Columbia, offering numerous attractions to the visitor, including Stanley Park, noted for luxuriant vegetation and Big Trees.

CANADIAN ROCKIES. Described without exaggeration as fifty Switzerlands thrown into one. For over five hundred miles, a continuous panorama of bewildering magnificence—snowy peaks, glaciers, foaming torrents, rugged precipices, waterfalls, canyons, clear lakes and peaceful valleys. Leaving Vancouver, the train passes along the Fraser River into the awe-inspiring surroundings of the Thompson River Canyon, with its angry waters. Further on is Albert Canyon, of great depth and startling formations, and then into the Valley of the Illecillewaet. The road now enters into lands of great heights, mighty peaks towering on all sides. The chief centres of attraction are:

Glacier. In the heart of the Selkirks, a region of mighty peaks; less than two miles is the great Illecillewaet Glacier, rising over 5,000 feet from its base to the sky line. To the left, towering skyward for a mile and a quarter, is the naked pyramid of Mt. Sir Donald. Easy trails lead to Asulkan Glacier, Caves of Nakimu and many observation points, lakes and passes.

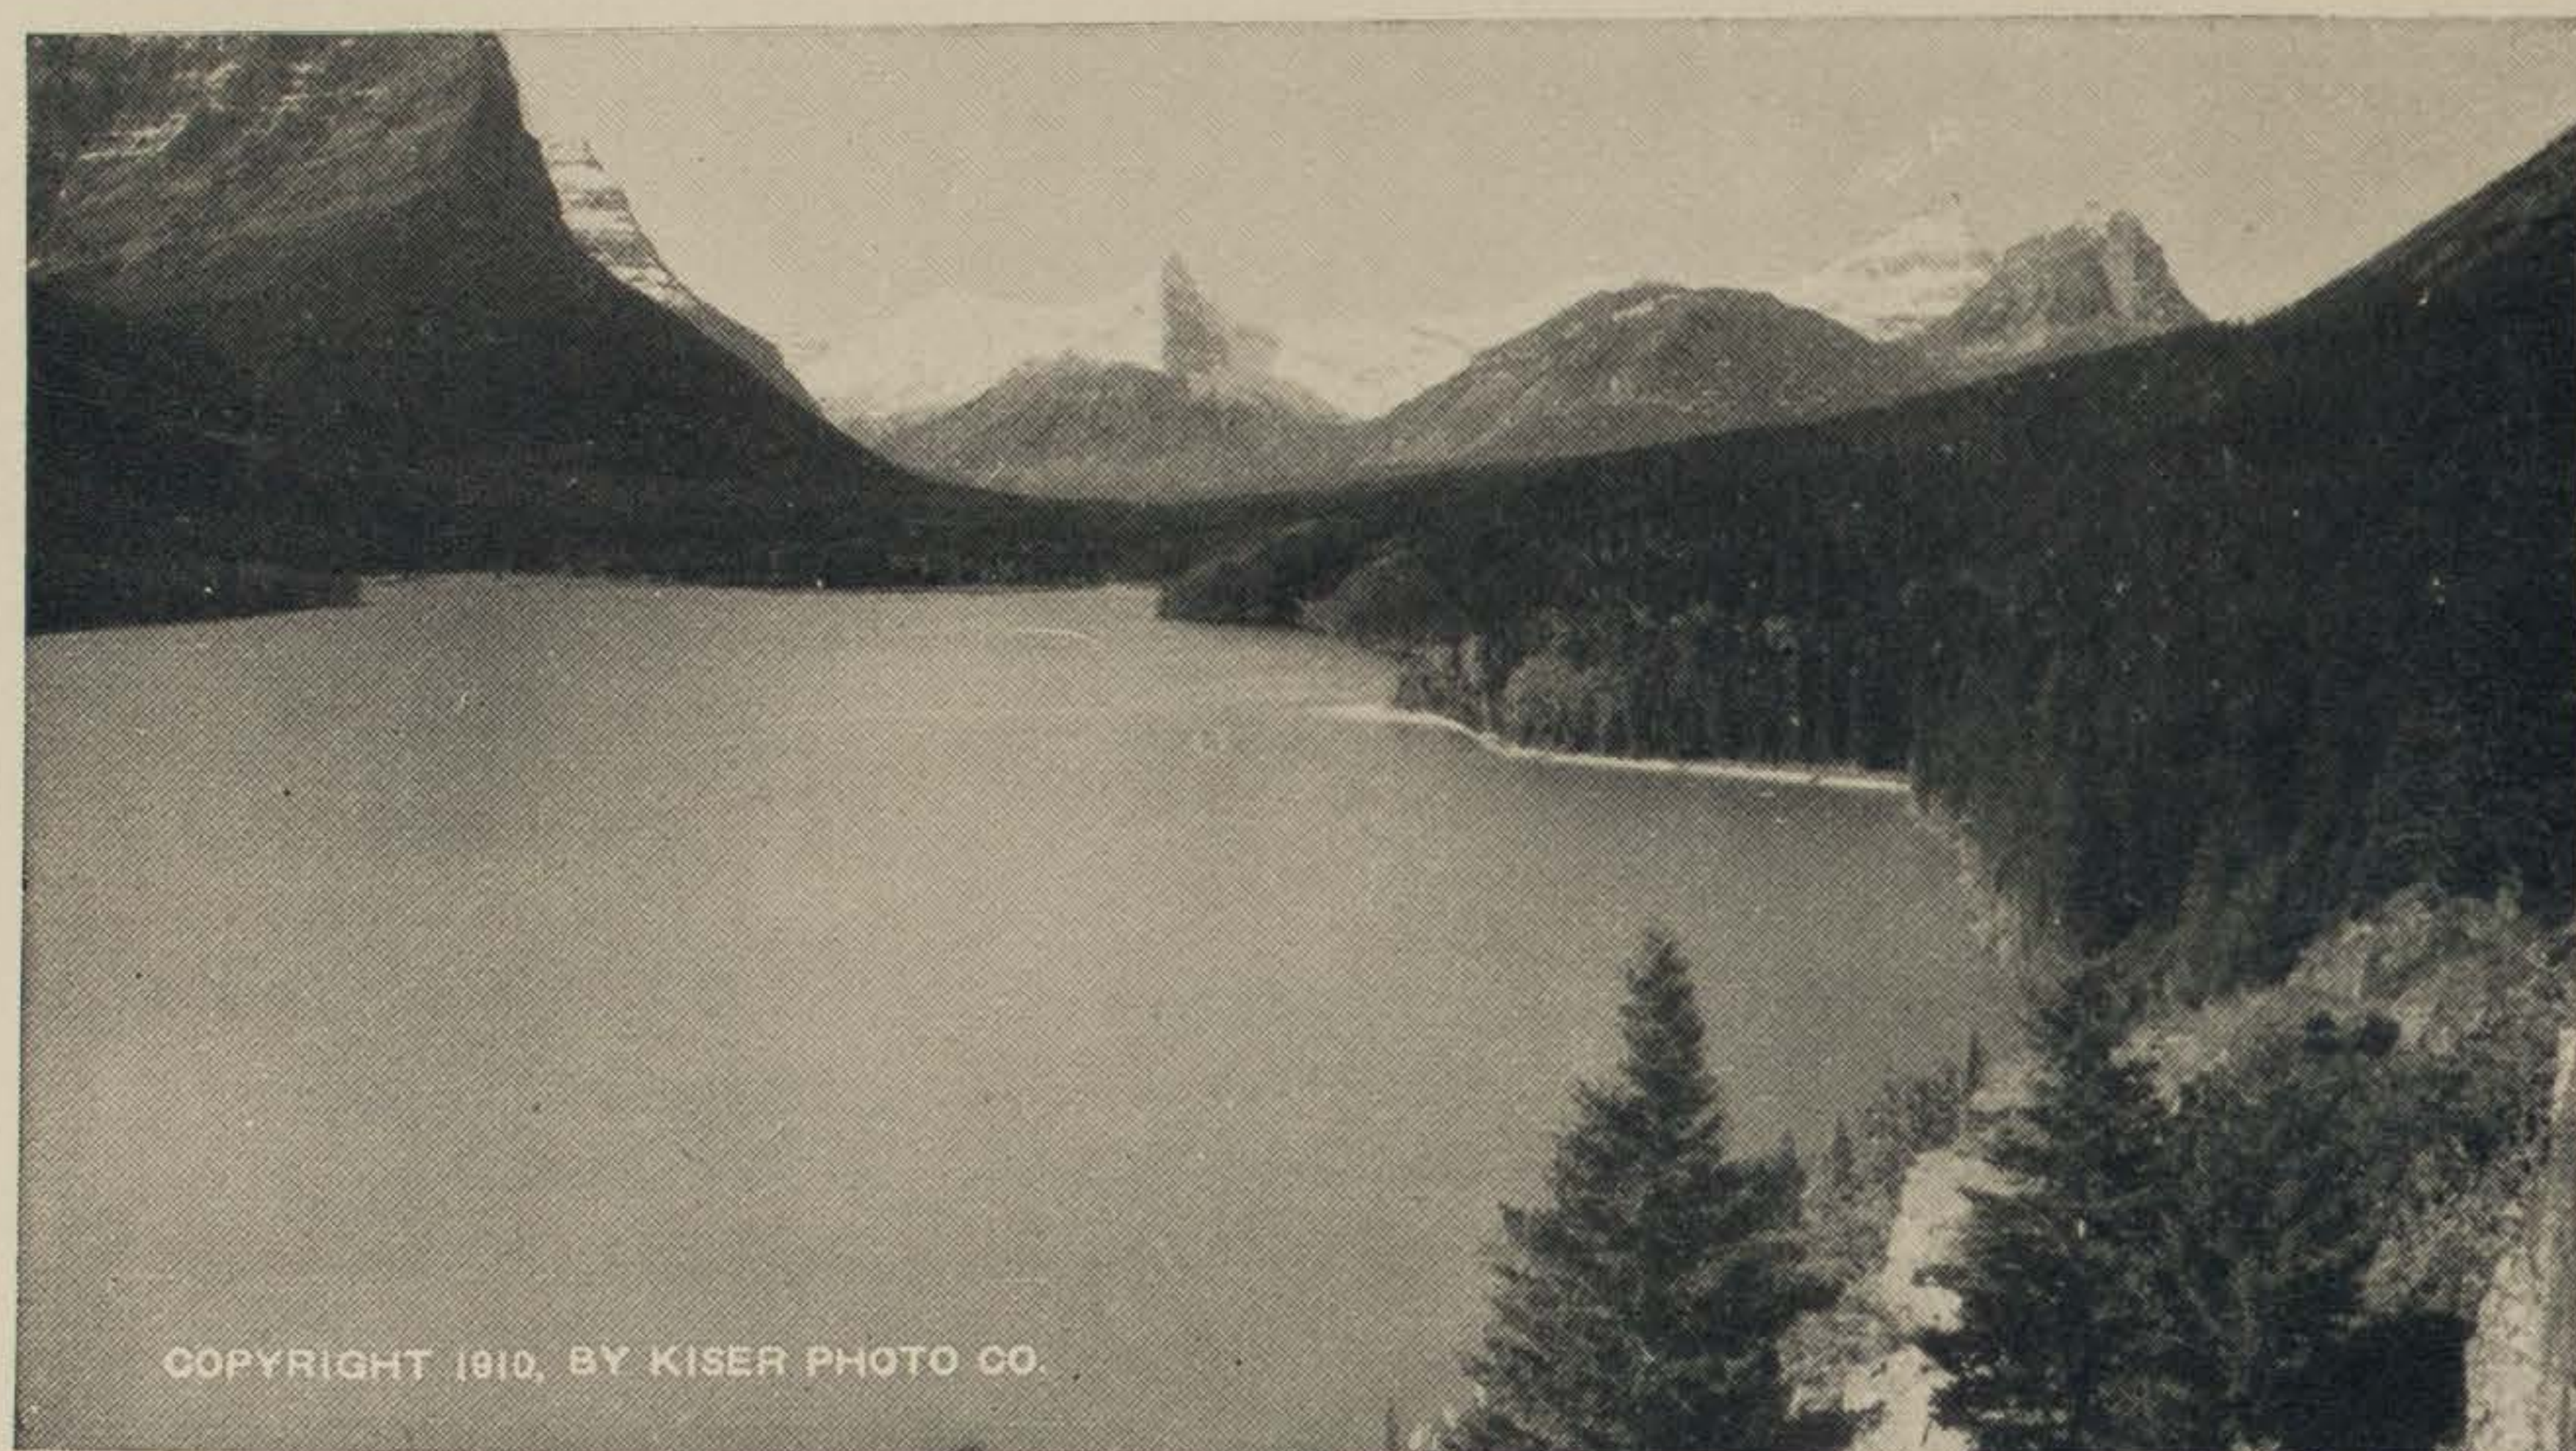

Lake Louise. The Gem of the Canadian Rockies. Here are located Lake Louise; Lake Mirror and Lake Agnes, the "Lakes in the Clouds"; Valley of the Ten Peaks, with Lake Moraine; Paradise Valley and other mountains and passes, all of which may be visited by well-equipped stage and saddle lines.

Banff. The gateway to the Canadian National Park, with an area of 2,000 square miles. Within short distance are Bow Falls, a cataract of wondrous beauty; Tunnel Mountain, offering splendid views, the Cave and Basin, remarkable formations, containing natural sulphur springs; the Hoodoos, natural cement pillars of various sizes and shapes; Cascade and other mountains; beautiful Vermillion Lake; animal paddocks and Sun Dance Canyon, all conveniently reached.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK. A wonderland, 1,500 square miles in area, with a variety of mountain scenery unsurpassed for beauty and grandeur on this continent, excelling even the famous Alps of Switzerland. The main range of the Rockies extends through the centre and within its boundaries are more than sixty living glaciers—one, the Black Feet Glacier, being nearly five miles square; over 250 mountain lakes, dozens of waterfalls and peaks ranging from 8,000 to 10,500 feet in height.

HEAD OF UPPER LAKE ST. MARY FROM THE UPPER NARROWS—GLACIER NATIONAL PARK

The Park may be entered through its two gateways, Belton on the Pacific slope and Glacier Park on the Atlantic slope, and many of its delightful features visited by launch, auto and stage service. More complete tours can be made from one entrance to the other by horseback, comfortable camps being located at different points.

Its principal points of interest are: magnificent Capitol building, new Auditorium, Fort Snelling, Minnehaha Falls, Lake Minnetonka, St. Anthony Falls, University of Minnesota, Hamline University. Opposite St. Paul is the city of Minneapolis, the centre of the milling industry. Both are very fine cities with many beautiful parks and streets.

EL PASO. Population 40,000, one of the chief centres of the Southwest, rapidly growing in importance, with a steady increase in the production of raw and finished materials. El Paso is in every way up-to-date; splendid homes, stately business blocks, municipal buildings and hotels, commission form of government, parks, etc., make it more modern than cities with double its population. Across the Rio Grande is Juarez, Mexico, with its picturesque natives, bull ring, Cathedral, race track and recently battle-scarred walls.

SAN ANTONIO. Here is the historic Alamo, the cradle of Texas liberty. Traces of its founders, the early Spanish Missionaries, are seen in its narrow streets, Spanish architecture, numerous parks and plazas, containing the rarest plants of semi-tropical countries.

SPECIAL EXPOSITION TOURS

NEW ORLEANS. The Crescent City offers a great variety of unique attractions. Its former administrators, French and Spanish, have left their marks upon the city in the old French Quarter and Jackson Square, where are located the old Cathedral, Cabildo, etc. It is easily visited by its network of street-car lines commencing on Canal Street, the widest thoroughfare in the country. The points of interest are the Levees, Jackson Square, French Market, old Absinthe House, Tulane University, Spanish Oaks, etc.

NEW ORLEANS TO NEW YORK VIA RAIL. A route combining centers of commercial importance and historic interest is that of the Shenandoah Valley Route, "the Short Line." This great highway of travel crosses the Blue Ridge and Alleghany Mountains, giving mountain and valley scenery of unsurpassed picturesque beauty.

On this route are the LURAY CAVERNS and the GROTTOES OF THE SHENANDOAH, justly called two of the World Wonders. Of all the strange and wonderful works of nature, none are more beautiful, none more interesting and none more impossible to describe by words or picture. They are underground caverns, forty miles apart, draped with curious stalactite formations of great variety of shapes and colors. Luray is one hundred miles southwest of Washington, and The Grottoes forty miles south of Luray. All through tickets are good to stop off ten days at both places.

NATURAL BRIDGE, VIRGINIA, described by the illustrious Thomas Jefferson as "the most sublime of Nature's works." He also says: "It is impossible for the emotions arising from the sublime to be felt beyond what they are here: so beautiful an arch, so elevated, so light, and springing as it were up to heaven! The rapture of the spectator is really indescribable!" Natural Bridge is an all-year resort and a delightful place to visit. It is south southwest of the Grottoes and Luray Caverns in the same beautiful valley. All through tickets good for stop-over of ten days.

CHATTANOOGA, TENNESSEE, the most attractive point for tourists in the South. It is also a most important commercial center, as its slogan, "The Dynamo of Dixie," signifies. It has immense water-power developments and is a rapidly growing manufacturing city. Its Lookout Mountain and great National Military Park system, its scenic surroundings and historic associations draw many visitors from all sections.

WYNKOOP HALLENBECK CRAWFORD COMPANY, NEW YORK

Enroute to California

to visit the two great expositions at San Francisco and San Diego celebrating the opening of the Panama Canal, stop over and see the

the most stupendous scenic attraction in the world.

To do this it is necessary that your transcontinental ticket be routed via the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway, as no other line reaches this titanic chasm.

The Santa Fe is making extensive preparations for an unusually heavy traffic during 1915 and, in addition to the famous California Limited and the Santa Fe de-Luxe (extra fine, extra fast, extra fare), there will be two and perhaps three daily trains. This allows visitors to go to San Francisco, or to San Diego direct, or via Los Angeles, as they see fit. Through sleeping cars to and from the Grand Canyon will be operated on Limited trains. The Santa Fe roadbed is heavily rock ballasted throughout, safeguarded by block signals and equipped with modern rolling stock and the most powerful locomotives. All meal service in both dining-cars and station dining-rooms is under the management of Fred Harvey, whose reputation as a caterer is international.

The Santa Fe is the best way to travel from the Great Lakes to the Pacific Coast.

If you will permit I will send to you our guide books and descriptive matter, setting forth in detail what you will need to know about the scenery, the trains, the country and the strange people to be seen enroute. Just address
